PILLARS OF PROGRESS

The foundation of Garden City Community College’s strategic plan are the four Pillars of Progress. These Pillars serve as foundational components for sustainability and longevity of the institution and our mission of producing positive contributors to society. The development of the Garden City Community College 2019 and Beyond Strategic Plan began in the summer of 2017. The existing college goals were incorporated into the plan and surveys were administered in both the summer and fall. From those surveys, goals, and SWOT analysis, the framework of the plan emerged, focusing on four main components, the pillars of success, that serve as the foundation of the long term plan.

The Strategic Planning Committee (SPC) was formed, comprised of broad institutional representation, and began meeting on a regular basis.

These meetings focused on creation of the strategies the institution will implement to facilitate support of the mission and vision of the college. The resulting Strategic Plan highlights four timeless pillars as a foundation for progress. The associated goals and strategies represent key issues for the College to focus on over the next several years in order to advance the institution. Moving forward, divisional and departmental strategies will be established to support the plan.

Key Performance Indicators (KPIs) will serve to measure overall success of the strategies. Each strategy is owned by one or more members of the administrative team. Team members will complete, or assign to others, actions or assignments to accomplish the strategies. Each strategy has associated metrics and targets determining success. Resulting data at annual assessment will determine progress on the strategy, with the associated KPI measuring overall progress toward the overarching goals of the associated Pillars. The Strategic Plan is assessed annually and modified or adjusted as necessary.
to meet the needs of stakeholders, retire completed strategies, and implement new strategies supporting the college’s mission.

The Strategic Plan is assessed annually with updates to progress on strategies, with a full report after the end of the academic year. The annual Strategic Plan Report provides evidence of progress for the various strategies. The report is then aligned with assessment at the program, department, and administrative outcomes level.
